SHE WATCHED HUBBY

And Collared Him on His Return From Pittsburgh.

A BOSS KILNMAN'S WOES

Two Indignant Females, Mrs. Coulson and Mrs. Mackey Came Together on Second Street at an Early Hour This Morning—Three Policemen and a Newspaper Man in the Audience.

A domestic tragedy was enacted early this morning which proved that the Ceramic city has its dark sides of life, as well as its gay ones, and that many a family is disturbed when to all appearances there is contentment on every hand.

Long before the 1:30 o'clock train from Pittsburgh arrived this morning, a woman with a face worn and weary, but every line of her features stamped with a wild determination, could be seen talking in low tones at the Cleveland & Pittsburgh passenger station to two men. They were discussing some thing that would have been interesting to the other people about the depot had they caught more than fragments of the conversation. Presently the "midnight train" steamed in, discharged a half dozen passengers and steamed away again into the moonlit night. A short, heavy set woman had left one of the cars. She was dressed in black and carried a basket. On her the watching woman cast her eyes and they flashed fire as she turned swiftly and followed the newcomer. The two men who had been waiting disappeared. One of them followed a man who had walked through the train when it stopped, stepped quietly off one of the rear cars and stole away with a haste that could not but arouse suspicion. Meanwhile war was being waged on Second street. That historic old Smoky, notorious it may well be called, was the scene of a struggle between the two women, the one filled with all the fury of a wronged and deserted wife, and the other playing the part of one wrongly accused. The woman in black was hurrying away from a volley of abuse, accusations and curses, denying the criminal charges as best she could, while her pursuer, coming closer at every step, hurled maledictions at her, and finally, being unable to withstand the bold front the other woman presented, she sprang upon her. There was a brief struggle on the pavement, and what the end would have been is doubtful had not Night Policemen Kinsey appeared on the scene. He scented trouble from afar off and separated the women just at the most interesting part of the game. Then the woman in white hurried away, and a few traveling men who had alighted from the train proceeded on their way in astonishment up town.

Chapter second was witnessed by a News Review reporter. As he walked near the postoffice a man, whom he recognized as Thomas Mackey, boss kilnman at the Knowles, Taylor & Knowles china works, came westward along Fourth street. He had just reached the corner of Fourth and Washington streets and quickened his pace as the woman in white came rushing up Washington street, panting and breathless, and leaping over the curb ran after him with:

"Tom, Tom, come back here: come and tell this woman I am not your mistress, but your wife. What do you mean by going up there with that woman and telling her that you have a wife in England, and that I am just your housekeeper? You know I am your lawful wife and the mother of your seven children."

The woman spoke in the tones of desperation, and her hand was raised as if she would strike down the man to whom she addressed herself. That individual seemed considerably bothered and replied:

"Oh, go away. Don't raise this row: there's no use in this fuss."

"Tom," she screamed again, "if you don't tell this woman that I am not your mistress but your lawful wife, I'll expose you to everybody tomorrow. I'll go to the mayor's office and tell it all. My God, to think you have treated me this way when I've always been true to you."

As she caught his coat sleeve he shook her off roughly and said: "I'll turn you over to the police. Go on home and stop this noise. I'll come home."

Just then Officers Jennings and Earle and the woman in black came up the street. She was recognized as Mrs. Mary Coulson, the Franklin street saloonist. Mrs. Mackey turned fiercely upon her and called her all the vile names at her command. She charged her with having gone to Pittsburgh Saturday night with her husband and staying there over Sunday and that she had at last tracked them down after many nights of watching. The talk continued all the way up Washington street until the Hotel Grand was reached. Officer Earle had ordered Mrs. Coulson twice to go home, and both policemen did their best to keep the woman quiet. Officer Jennings saw that Mrs. Coulson was safely started on her way home and Officer Earle followed up Mrs. Mackey. She had been with her husband, but he could no longer stand her accusations and ran away up Thompson avenue. Mrs. Mackey's brother, Mr. Evans, took charge of her, but at the corner of Walnut street and the avenue she ran, as if distracted, toward the river. He followed and caught her, and they started toward her home in Huston addition. As the officer came up to them near the Knowles pottery the excited woman broke down and sobbed as if her heart would break. She told the officer all her sad story and how she had watched her husband in his actions but had suffered in silence, hoping that it would soon be ended. Mrs. Coulson had accused her of being drunk, but she said to the officer "I am neither drunk nor crazy." She finally went home crying and the officer and reporter returned to Sixth street, where they met Officer Jennings. Mrs. Coulson said she would put a charge of disorderly conduct and assault against Mrs. Mackey, and if she does so there will no doubt be an interesting trial. No charge was entered today.

SAVING EXPENSES.

How a Traveler Works Confiding Livermen.

A week ago a stranger, giving the name of John Morgan, of Akron, called on John Rinehart, and said he was an old soldier, and would likely want to hire a team. On Friday he got the team, but did not return. Yesterday Rinehart telephoned his description to Wheeling, and found the man had been in Steubenville. Liveryman Mittenberg had given him a team on Friday afternoon, and he had not returned. Rinehart went to Steubenville, saw Mittenberg, and located the team at Martin's Ferry, but could hear nothing of the Liverpool horse. On the way home he stopped at Wellsville, and found his horse at Haugh's stable, where it had been left by the stranger. The liverymen have an association to look after such fellows, and they and their detectives are now hunting him. It is thought that he does these tricks to save traveling expenses.

THREW A BRICK.

The Man Was Mad Because the Motorman Was Stern.

When the street car commanded by Motorman McKinnon left Wellsville last night it was boarded by a man who fell into a lady's lap as he walked down the aisle. The motorman saw that the woman was injured more than she desired to show, and sharply rebuked the stranger. He growled out a response, and taking a seat was quiet until they reached Jethro. There he got off, and in a few minutes a brick whizzed by the motorman's head, missing him by only a few inches. The motorman reported the matter to the police, and there will be fun when he is captured.

ONLY ONE SIDE.

"The trade papers say that there will be a good trade next fall," said a prominent manufacturer today, "but they neglect to say that their expectations are from the importers. They have been having a good trade all season, and now they are going to follow up the inroads they have made among our customers. It is a cute little scheme on their part to make the country believe that we are doing a big business with them, and factories here are rushed with orders."

A Scarcity of Substitutes.

When the new carriers are added to the postal service next month the local office will be out of substitutes. The examination last Saturday will decide upon two subs, but the result will not be known until August, and during the whole of that time the office will be without them. Postmaster Miskall thinks he will get along, however, very well.

Not Married Yet.

The News Review's informant regarding the wedding of John Twitch was slightly mixed. John says he isn't married at all, and has no intention of entering the matrimonial state.

THEY WERE DRINKING

Officers Earle and Jennings Were Present

AND SURPRISED THE CROWD

Mrs. Coulson's Saloon Has Been Quiet For Several Weeks, But the Place Was Open Yesterday When the Owner Was Absent.

Officers Jennings and Earle are a sociable pair of policemen, and like nothing better than to take part in little surprise parties, but their victims usually see it in another light.

Yesterday afternoon the eagle eye of the law looked through the walls of the saloon whose destinies are guided by Mrs. Mary Coulson, and seeing something unusual the officers decided to investigate. In a room near the bar they found four men cooling their fevered frames with beer. The crowd emptied the contents of the glasses on the floor when the officers entered, but that did not prevent the policemen from notifying Mrs. Mary A. Taylor, who seemed to be in charge, that a charge of selling on Sunday would be entered in police court. The woman immediately clothed herself in the long cloak of innocence and said she had not sold the beer. The men were thirsty, and she had given them a drink. The story would not go down with the officers, but they waited for Mrs. Coulson to return from Pittsburgh in order to notify her of the broken law. Mrs. Coulson got in on the night train, and protested that she had no money. She said she had no money to take out a license and was thinking of leaving the saloon business forever. During the raid Charles Coulson began to use bad language, and ran away when the officers attempted to arrest him. A charge of disorderly conduct was entered against him last night, and he was captured by the police.

Coulson was arraigned this morning and fined $6.75 for the manner in which he acted when the officers were in the saloon. Mrs. Coulson was at city hall this morning and had a half hour's conference with Mayor Gilbert. She was fined $50 and costs, and arranged to give security for the amount. She did not pay her son's fine.

NOT GUILTY, SAID JACK.

Brighthouse Declared he Cut in Self Defense.

Jack Kaiser, or Brighthouse, was brought before Mayor Gilbert this morning and asked if he was guilty of cutting Fred Wolf with intent to kill on Saturday afternoon, and he promptly answered that he was not. The mayor set the time of trial for this evening, and four witnesses were summoned to be present and tell what they know of the stabbing. Wolf is not a very sick man, and after a few days have passed will be as well as ever.

LIVERPOOL WON.

A Good Game by the Glass Workers on Saturday.

East Liverpool won the game against the Pittsburgh boys on Saturday afternoon by a score of 9 to 8. The local boys had nine hits, nine runs and six errors and Pittsburgh had eight hits, eight runs and four errors. The batteries were Baxter and McCurran for Liverpool and Craig and Murray for Pittsburgh. The features of the game were the pitching of McCurran and the batting of Murray. The game was the best seen on the grounds this year, the large crowd being orderly. A return game will be played in Pittsburgh within six weeks.

As to Prisoners.

Chief Gill, of this city, and Turnkey Chris Bick, of Lisbon, were exchanging views recently when it was discovered that there was a vast difference of opinion regarding empty prison cells. Chief Gill said he was never better pleased than when the jail here was empty and had grown extremely tired of seeing three or four behind the bars all the time. The turnkey declared that he believed he would go mad if the county jail was empty for any length of time, as to have no prisoners to talk to when he is lonesome is something he does not like.

Trial Next Thursday.

The damage case of Amanda D. Martin, of Second street, against the street railway company, an action growing out of the trestle accident in Thanksgiving, '93 will come up in court on Thursday next. Witnesses to the number of about 40 are being subpoenaed in this city. Among those for the defense are Ed

Knapp, Thomas Smith, Will Coleman, Lawrence Allison, W. Arnold, James Cunningham, Frank Fowler, Benjamin Gregg, Thomas Pittenger, Ed McKinnon, George Ickes, at that time employees of the line, Gregg being the motorman whose car killed Mrs. Miller Harsha. Other witnesses for the defense are Robert Doty, J. N. Hanley, George Peach, Harry Peach, John Rinehart, John Maley, Charles Pelton, Squire Manley, Ray Coclough, Superintendent Andrews. Gregg is working on a line in another part of the state. Coclough is working in Pittsburgh and Pittenger has been ill for several months, and will not be able to appear.

Wellington In Jail.

Special to News Review.

Lisbon, June 3.—Tom Wellington, the Liverpool man who was sent here charged with stealing from Saloonist Barthel, was allowed to plead guilty to petit larceny this morning, and got 20 days in jail and the costs. Barthel has several charges against him for illegal liquor selling, and being out of the state could not return to prosecute Wellington.

Edward Venable, the Salem negro who was convicted of assault and battery last week, was sentenced to 60 days in the workhouse and fined $25 and costs.

A Lease in Court.

Special to the News Review.

Lisbon, June 3.—Hiram C. Stouffer today entered suit against Elizabeth Mathers asking that a lease of 75 acres of coal land in Salem township, given 30 years ago, be declared void. The plaintiff has leased the land and opened a mine, but finds that this old lease given 30 years ago by Joseph Long when he owned the land is still thought to be all right. The executors of the estate of the late Chauncey Andrews, of Youngstown, and the Lisbon coal company are also made defendants by reason of their claiming an interest.

They Want Mercer.

The breaking down of Pittsburgh's pitchers in the last week has caused consternation among the cranks in that city, and they are crying loudly for new men. They want Mercer, and so does the management, but Mercer is not on the market. Washington will keep him on the bench all season before they will part with him, but the Pittsburgh people believe every man has his price, and it is thought an effort will be made to land him, although it has small chances of being successful now.

Won His First Case.

Attorney John McGarry, who was made a lawyer last week, had his first case in court today, and won it. Harvey Allison and James Swinge-wood were charged with committing a nuisance in the alley near Groves' stable. Mr. and Mrs. Isenhauser made the charge, but the defense had witnesses to show that they were in the alley discussing a fight, and Mayor Gilbert dismissed the case.

A Long Ride.

B. F. Fohl, of Chambersburg, Pa., was in the city today on his wheel. He left Chambersburg eight weeks ago and has been travelling ever since, covering over 2,000 miles and reaching many of the prominent cities in the country. Before he started he was in poor health, but his trip has added many pounds of flesh and he is the picture of health. He goes to New Cumberland tonight.

Rose Is Known Here.

John Rose, the negro who is in jail in Steubenville charged with the murder of Clara Zeigler, is known in this city. He has frequently been here, and a few years ago had a number of friends in the city. Some of them say that they never looked upon him as a bad man, and believe that there will be circumstances to clear him of the charge.

Fakirs In Plenty.

The decision of Mayor Gilbert to have no more fakirs in the Diamond has not by any means scared the vendors away. One located at Sixth and East Market streets Saturday night, while directly opposite the "What Is It" show was going on. The crowd blocked the street until impassable, and the strangers did a good business.

A Liverpool Week.

A number of Liverpool cases will be tried in common pleas court this week. Among them is the Golding-Connors case. Solicitor Clark is so deeply interested in some of the cases that he has taken up his residence at the county seat for a week.

Selling Seats.

K. M. Pearson, of Dayton, is in the city today endeavoring to sell school desks to the board of education for the new building.

WILLIAM G. SMITH DEAD

A Pioneer of East Liverpool Passes Away.

HE WAS HERE IN THE FIRST DAYS

And Laid the Old Town Out in Lots—A Hard Worker For the Ashtabula and New Lisbon Railroad—He Secured the Right of Way For the Cleveland & Pittsburgh.

A telegram was received here yesterday announcing the death of a man who saw East Liverpool born, and who spent years of his life in aiding its development.

William G. Smith died at Tacoma on Saturday afternoon, passing peacefully away without pain, after an eventful life covering a period of 92 years. Mr. Smith was born where the city now stands in 1803. His boyhood was spent in the magnificent forests which covered this section, and when he grew to manhood he was endowed with a physical frame that insured long life and an active mind. His first effort for Liverpool was the purchase of the ground east of what is now Union street. This he bought from Thomas Fawcett, who owned 1,100 acres of the best land in this vicinity. Mr. Smith soon had his property laid out in lots, and named it Liverpool in order to distinguish it from Fawcettsville, where the fluro mill was located in what is now the lower part of the city. Believing that push and energy would do wonders for the new town, Mr. Smith made another purchase of land buying what was known as the hill farm and made up of the land above Fourth street. At this time he learned that there was another town bearing the name of Liverpool in Ohio, and having no desire to complicate matters he had the addition and the old town named East Liverpool. People began to find the place a pleasant residence, and Mr. Smith set out to get the city a railroad. Times were good in those days, and all the money required to build the Ashtabula and New Lisbon railroad was soon subscribed. Men were employed in grading when the tariff laws were changed, and protection gave way to a compromise. Business struggled on for a time, but the panic soon made its presence known, and the railroad was abandoned. Not discouraged by the failure of the project, Mr. Smith and others conceived the idea of a road from Cleveland to Pittsburgh. The project was pushed, and the road made a success. Mr. Smith secured his right of way, and then sold the stock of the company for a little more than six cents on the dollar. He then engaged in business here, and in 1852-57 operated what is now the Croxall pottery on Second street. After a time he went to Cincinnati and from there to Leavenworth, Kan. After a short time there he returned to this city, and eventually went to Tacoma, on the Pacific coast. There he became a resident, and again lent his aid in building a city. He was energetic and patriotic, being a man with marked personal attainments, loving his country as he loved his God.

Mr. Smith was married to Miss Susan Smith, and from this union sprung 11 children. Of these he has seen seven pass away, the living now being Mrs. William Groveson, Cincinnati; Wilson F. Smith, Tacoma; Mrs. Joseph Mitchell, Tacoma; D. J. Smith, Mt. Pisgah. In this city the family are known as the oldest settlers, among the close connections being the Taylors, Goodwins, Harkers, Simms, Thomases and others. J. T. Smith and Wilson F. Smith are grandsons. Mr. D. J. Smith received a letter from his father only a week ago bearing the request that the Smith and Fawcett families remember his anniversary, June 17, by a reunion, and that he wanted them to be friends always. The remains will be interred in Tacoma, and when the clouds clatter down upon the box the last rites will have been said over a man to which the city of East Liverpool owes much.

Confessed Judgment.

In the Mackintosh cases judgment was rendered this morning in Squire Rose's court, for $24.90 in favor of E. D. Howard and for $13.70 in favor of H. Irish, treasurer of the Cooper Memorial college.

On the Top of the Heap.

The mercury was up in the air yesterday, and chasing the summer record today. In some places the 95 mark was passed yesterday, and last night it was almost 80 degrees at 10:30 o'clock.

HE WAS TOO SMART.

The Experience of a Countryman With London Confidence Men.

London has its confidence men, who are quite as expert as America's, says a writer in the Boston Herald. Their methods are very similar. It is not worth while to record their routine operations, but one recent instance, as illustrative of their resources, is amusing and instructive. An old Scotch traveling man, who bore somewhat the appearance of a countryman, but who knew the ropes perfectly, was accosted. He decided to have some fun at the expense of the would be swindlers, so he pretended to fall readily in with their statements—to be a particularly easy victim. They bought him a splendid dinner, calling him Mr. Kenny of Dundee—a name which they had caught from a traveling bag which he had borrowed from a friend. He enjoyed their hospitality hugely, and ate prodigiously and expensively. They paid the bill, and began the usual talk about a lottery prize, etc. Then he saw it was about time to "cap their game." Said he:

"Gentlemen, I thank you for the dinner. It was very good, and I have had a very pleasant time with you. But I won't go to see you draw your lottery prize. Oh, no! I know all about the lottery prize. My name is not Donald Kenny. It is Robert Ferguson, and I'm not from Dundee, but from Lochnoven, where I've lived with my daughter for 20 years. I am too old a fish to be caught. Good night!"

And he went his way rejoicing.

Two weeks later, when he went home to his daughter in Lochnoven, one of the first things she said to him was:

"Did you get the £20 all right?"

"What £20?"

"Why, the £20 you telegraphed for."

And it developed that the confidence men whom he had beaten at their own game had an ace up their sleeves, which they played after he had left them.

HE KEPT THE CHECK.

Turkman Green Morris Was Too Cunning For the Banks.

With so many bank robberies all around us it is not surprising that there should be some uneasiness among depositors. In general, however, the New Yorker has a clear head. He has faith in the Clearing House association, because he really does not quite understand the mystery of it, and he believes in his bank through thick and thin because he has seen the banks of the city stand together in support of a weakened institution. I am reminded of what happened to Green Morris, the Turkman, who lived in Brooklyn and raced horses on all the tracks of the metropolitan circuit. He had a big year of winnings at Monmouth park, and received at the end of the season a check from the association for $67,000. Eighteen months later he showed that check to me, considerably worn.

"Why, Green," I said reproachfully, "this check is 18 months old. What do you mean by keeping it so long? It is nearly worn out. Don't you know that a check should be deposited at once or cashed? Suppose the bank was to fail?"

Green chuckled knowingly and winked as he folded it up and put it back in his pocketbook.

"I ain't been racin' hosses for nothin these goin on nigh 20 year. I ain't got no faith in no banks. They's too much failin to suit me. That's what I've allus been afraid of, an that's why I'm holdin on to my check. I ain't a-goin to have no bank failin with my money in the safe. Besides I ain't had no use for the $67,000, an it's jes' as easy to keep it in my pocket this way."

This same Green is worth now $800,000 or $400,000, and yet cannot write his name.—New York Press.

Mezzofanti's Memory.

Cardinal Mezzofanti had a memory little short of miraculous. Dr. Russell, his biographer, says that the cardinal spoke with the greatest ease 30 languages; that he spoke fairly well 9; that he used occasionally, but not with any fluency, 11 more; that he spoke imperfectly 8, and that he could read 11 more. Taking, in addition, the number of dialects he used, some so diverse from the mother tongue as to constitute a different language, Dr. Russell says that the cardinal was master of no less than 111 different languages and dialects. His German was so excellent that he was taken for a native of Germany, while his French and English were equally pure. Dr. Tholuck heard him converse in German, Arabic, Spanish, Flemish, English, Latin, Greek, Swedish and Portuguese at one of the pope's receptions, and afterward Mezzofanti gave him an original poem in Persian and left him to take a lesson in Cornish. He knew several of the American Indian languages and nearly all the dialects of India.

Abigail Dodge About the Same.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Miss Abigail Dodge remains about the same. The hot weather has a depressing effect, but she is conscious at intervals and rests fairly well.

"Christ Hath Risen."

All at once is heard in the distance the clear boom of the cannon announcing the hour of midnight. The Russian priest, standing on the steps of the altar, swings his censer and announces in tones which penetrate to the farthest corners of the edifice, "Christos voskres" (Christ hath risen), and the people answer him with one voice, "Vo istine voskres" (In truth he hath risen). The woman standing nearest the priest lights her taper at the consecrated one presented to her by him, her neighbor in turn receives the light from her, and so on, till in a minute, as it were, the chapel was illuminated with a hundred lights.

Fathers and mothers, sons and daughters, friends and relations embraced one another, kissing three times on the forehead and either cheek and exchanging the Easter greeting. The whole congregation, then passing before the priest, did the same with him, and high mass now followed.—Chambers' Journal.

Transporting Carp.

When packing live carp for transport by post, some authorities recommend placing in their mouths a small piece of bread, well steeped in brandy, but I do not myself approve of this plan, as I believe it tends to encourage the fish in a disastrous love for ardent spirits. The eminently respectable Dutch, on the other hand, keep carp through the winter hung up in baskets, but feed them on a blameless course of bread and milk, which the sternest moralist could not fail to approve of.—Cornhill Magazine.

"Say," said the deputy, "I put No. 711 on the treadmill eight hours ago as a punishment, and I'll be dinged if he ain't goin on just as chipper and happy as can be."

"Why, of course," said the prison warden in tones of disgust. "Didn't you know the feller was sent here for bicycle stealing? That sort of thing is right in his line."—Indianapolis Journal.

Autocrat of the Kitchen.

Mrs. Faintheart (at front window)—Officer!

Policeman—Yes, ma'am. What's wrong, ma'am?

Mrs. F.—Nothing's wrong, but I wish you'd step into the kitchen and tell the cook not to burn the meat, as she did last night. I'm afraid to.—Pick Me Up.

"My," said the shoe clerk boarder, "but I did get a fine lot of sarcasm from my tailor when I had to stand him off again. Still, I rather think I deserved it."

Eyes and Darkness.

Objects in a dark room cannot at first be seen by one going in from the sunlight, because the pupil of the eye has been contracted during the exposure, and cannot at once enlarge to admit sufficient rays of light to enable the individual to see clearly.

The hoopskirt was in full feather in 1596. It was then made of iron and sometimes weighed as much as 30 pounds.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

R. Edwards' son is among the ailing.

A tandem bicycle, bearing two weary, sun browned travelers passed through the city Saturday evening.

Ed Mosby, the West End colored man who was so seriously injured in the National House fight, is able to be about the house and will be out as usual.

A Fifth street boy was thrashed by his father on Saturday and ran away that evening. He was recovered and brought home yesterday from the house of a relative in the country.

The parks were well patronized yesterday, the street cars did a good business and the supply of skiffs did not equal the demand yesterday evening, all because of the extreme heat.

Several from this city attended the funeral of the son of William Miller at Smith's Ferry yesterday. The boy's death by drowning has so grieved the father that it is feared his mind will become impaired.

Thad Fuller, the man who was hurt by a falling derrick at the Thomas Knob works last week, is slowly improving at the home of Frank March, Broadway. It will be weeks, however, before he is able to resume work.

The flower thieves have resumed operations after a brief vacation. James Hargreaves was the recipient of a call from the unknown depredators the other night, and mourns the loss of four fine geranium bushes.

For the first time in more than a month no strange wheelmen were noticed in this city yesterday. The terrific heat kept them away, as it also kept local riders at home and those who found pleasure in cycling were few.

The kilnmen's local union at their last meeting elected George Smith, James Miles and Richard Baxter as delegates to the meeting of the National Brotherhood in Wheeling. Mr. Miles will represent the yellow ware kilnmen.

Mrs. Margaret Laughlin's friends are holding a reunion at that aged lady's home near Georgetown today, and many of the guests are from this city. The reunion was a complete surprise to Mrs. Laughlin but a pleasant one, no doubt.

A young lady fell in the river about 9 o'clock last night, but fortunately it was shallow water just alongside the wharf boat and her only anxiety was that the accident would not find its way in the newspapers. She did not leave her name and address.

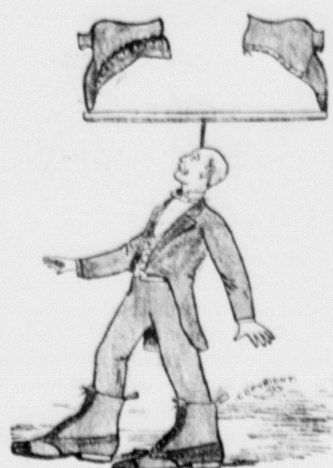

The sudden shower which came last evening from what was almost a clear sky caught many new dresses and spring hats. The churches had emptied their congregations on the streets only a few minutes before and there being a marked scarcity of umbrellas the damage to finery was wide spread.

Manager Frank Swaney is more than pleased with the reception accorded the all night opening of the telephone on Saturday night. The news was spread abroad on Saturday, and the night operator, Will Swaney, did a good business. Miss Mabel McNutt, who has been assisting in the office as operator, has resigned her position, and another young lady will soon be appointed to fill the place.

A gypsy camp has been established near Chester, and the wanderers are making themselves comfortable. It is the largest seen in this section for several years, and its equipment is new and bright. The horses are good, well fed, and seem to be well cared for. Many people visited the camp yesterday, and were pleasantly received. The strangers do not say how long they are going to stay.

The small boy who failed to dip in the murky waters of the Ohio yesterday and Saturday night was not keeping pace with his friends and companions. The river banks were lined with youngsters, and as the funny papers have it "undressed kids were the prevailing style." A number of more mature youths sought the mouth of Little Beaver for their bath, but the vast majority were content with the river.

Rev. Dr. Leonard delivered an eloquent address at the First Methodist Episcopal church last evening, taking as his topic the life and character of Christ. The sum of $800 was raised for missionary purposes, and voluntary contributions to a considerable amount were given to Reverend Leonard, after the close of the services, for the purpose of assisting in erecting a church in Yokohama, the small edifice in that city having been destroyed by a typhoon.

WELLSVILLE.

MORGAN CAUGHT PATTERSON.

He Has Long Been Wanted for Sunday Selling.

John Patterson, a former saloonist, was captured yesterday by Officer Morgan after a long search. Last fall a warrant was sworn out for Patterson charging him with selling liquor illegally, and the police have watched closely for him, but he could not be found. Yesterday he was seen and arrested, and taken this morning to Lisbon, where he will settle the matter with the county officials, the warrant having been issued under the state law.

TOO DRUNK TO TALK.

An East Liverpool Boy Captured in Wellsville.

A Liverpool boy who was too drunk to tell the police his name was gathered in by Officer Morgan on Saturday evening. The lad could not have been over 16 years of age, and was youthful in appearance, but he had obtained liquor from some source, and was drunk. He could not deny the charge, and Mayor Sinclair assessed $5 and costs. His father was notified and paid the fine yesterday. The boy would not tell where he got the liquor.

MAY BE A ROUSER.

A Liverpool Man and a Wellsville Girl the Principals.

It is asserted on good authority that strong efforts are being made to keep down a scandal of no mean proportions, the interested parties being a Wellsville girl and a young man from Liverpool. Pleadings and tears failed to have any effect, and the case was placed in the hands of an attorney. He is using his endeavors to bring the parties together and keep the matter quiet, but it may appear in a sensational case in court before it is ended.

Council Meets Tonight.

Council meets tonight, and business of only ordinary importance will be discussed. The matter of accepting a plan for the extension of Liverpool street is among the questions to be considered, and a councilman made the remark if there was anything like a "nigger in that woodpile" it would come out. The question of having prisoners work on the streets is also expected to appear, but it is thought council will adhere to its decision.

Arrested in Liverpool.

A man named Grumling, who has been employed at the American House as night clerk, was arrested in Liverpool on Saturday afternoon by Chief Gill, and sent to Wellsville. He was locked up to await a hearing this morning. The charge against the man was taking a hat.

Clearing up the Cases.

Mayor Sinclair was in East Liverpool Saturday securing some blank executions and issued nine or 10 for offenders who still owe portions of their fines. The delinquent ones will be brought to time and the docket cleared of old cases as soon as possible.

Soon to Wed.

Cards are out announcing the marriage of Mr. George Appell, of this place, and Miss Ola E. Yost, of Minerva. The wedding will take place on June 19, at the home of the bride's parents, and the happy pair will reside in this place.

Personal.

Miss Pay Hunter, who has been at home enjoying a short vacation, has returned to Steubenville seminary.

A Pretty Appearance.

The parade by the Sipe & Dolman dog and pony show today was a marvel of its kind, and attracted wide attention in the city. The animals seem almost as intelligent as human beings, occupying their places in the procession with dignity or mischievousness, as their parts demanded. The show appears for three nights, beginning with this evening, at West End park, and will doubtless attract a large attendance. C. H. Havens, the press agent, is an old newspaper man.

Will Try It Again.

President Marshall has called a special meeting of council for tonight, the object being the settlement of the differences between the property owners on the extension of Fourth street and the city. The attorneys will be there as they were on Friday night, and President Marshall hopes that councilmen will be there.

A Genuine Show.

Pawnee Bill's Wild West show was one in truth in a New York town yesterday, the three buffaloes escaping and swimming a river nearby. They were chased by cowboys on horseback and captured with lariats, but not before one man came near being drowned and was pulled out of the water with a lasso.

SENTENCES CUT IN TWO

The Pardon Board Refuses to Free

M'KINNON, WELCH, CARTWRIGHT

Their Sentences Were Cut in Two, and the Boys Will be Released Next Winter. The Best Influence in Liverpool Could Not Release Them.

The board of pardons held a special session at Columbus on Saturday, at which the cases of the Liverpool boys, about whom so much was said a few months ago, were taken up.

The boys are Lambert Welch, Thomas Cartwright and Orville McKinnon, and the charge against them was burglary. They were convicted, and sentenced to two years each in the penitentiary, and applications were at once forwarded asking pardons. Petitions were circulated and able attorneys worked hard to make a good showing before the board, and the opinion was general that they would be released. The board looked at it in another light, however, and decided that they could do nothing more than commute the sentence of each to one year. As the boys have already served half of this time, the action of the board is better than if the case was turned down, as were many others before that body. It will be remembered that McKinnon, Cartwright and Welch were arrested and tried for committing several burglaries, among them being Hague & Webster's saloon and King's grocery.

In Society.

Mrs. W. E. Boulton will entertain at her home on Sixth street this evening in honor of her guest, Miss Agnes May Brown.

The ladies of the Eastern star have arranged an entertainment for Wednesday evening, one-half the members being the responsible entertainers.

The Masons are arranging for the annual picnic which will be held on June 24.

NOTICE TO COUNCILMEN.

All members of the city council are requested to be present at a special meeting to be held at city hall tonight. The meeting is to confer with attorneys regarding Fourth street extension. By order

R. J. MARSHALL,
President.

A Case Postponed.

The case of the Wayne County Mutual Fire Insurance company versus the D. E. McNicol Pottery company for $27, was postponed by Squire Rose this morning until Monday morning next.

Making Purchases.

F. M. Lampton, representing one of the largest jobbing houses in Louisville, Ky., was in the city today buying ware. This is an indication that some jobbers are buying American ware.

While I was pastor of the Baptist church at River Junction she was brought down with pneumonia succeeding La Grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results." Trial bottles free at T. L. Pott's drug store. Regular size 50 cents and $1.
